The people at ASGTG are very professional and knowledgeable at what they do. They were able to get my account reinstated after 2 months of sending appeals. The appeals process was very long and stressful but thankfully ASGTG was able to get us through the process. We highly recommend their services as their team of experts worked one on one with us to resolve our problem. They never gave up and we can't thank them enough. Moving forward we will continue to use the other services they provide. Thank you to the ASGTG team and we cannot wait to see you at your next event. See less

ASGTG is a great group to discuss and solve all your amazon related problems. The audience and people in this group are legit sellers from all over the world and everyone here offers their help and share opinions in a respectful manner, I haven't any seen bashing and/or people making fun of someone's misery in comments, which I have seen in some other groups. Most importantly I would like to applaud the efforts of Ed Rosenberg, he is truly a star and I have seen that he helps each and every single person who posts here and he shares his expert advise and opinion. He has helped me with few of my complex problems as well, he also responded and addressed my questions/problems on messenger (inbox) without any hesitation. He is a true professional and genuinely a good and down to earth person with an exceptional amount of knowledge and experience. See less

I used them for reconciliation. They did way, way more than I could have imagined! Very happy to pay the % because I could not have been reimbursed for anything close if I had tried it myself. They kinda know what they are doing....!
I did find it annoying that they basically avoid all phone conversations and whatsapp. Everything has to be via email. It makes a bit of sense because they probably want the paper-trail, but it does slow things down.
I still give 5/5 See less

The team was very helpful in getting my ASINs reinstated for alleged utility patent infringement. Thank you!

It helped that I had my patent lawyer edit their POA before sending it in to make the legal arguments more accurate.

It could have gone a bit faster knowing what I know now, but overall I'm happy and appreciative of the service.

I recommend anyone that's selling on the Amazon platform to join this group. If you have any problems with selling at any point, you don't have to feel hopeless about getting the issues resolved. Ed, the administrator, works hard on behalf of us sellers. Keeps us updated on the latest Amazon news. It is a group you definitely want to join for your Amazon Business. So glad I ran across this group when I needed help! Thanks to Ed and Thanks to the members of this group!

Ed and his team are the real deal. The first law firm I hired failed to get my listing reinstated after several rounds of POAs, and after 6 months of getting no response from Amazon, I was about to give up. Then I heard about Ed, and decided to give it one last shot. Rachel wrote me an amazing Plan of Action and delivered it within 24 hours. Within 3 days my listing was back up! I cannot thank them enough! I just wish I had found them sooner. Save your money and time and go straight to Ed! They are pros. I also liked that they communicate with you in real-time chat, which is a nice personal touch. See less

We received a suspension "notice" on Friday Oct 25th after receiving a call from Account Health on Monday Oct 21. We were initially charged with 2 Trademark violations that ended up being our OWN Trademark! We made 6-8 calls to account health and submitted our Plan of Action (POA) on time but STILL got suspended for 12 days. After posting my story on ASGTG -I got a message and a call from ED. Ed worked with us and placed our interview on the petition that soon grew to over 11,000 signatures. 1 hour after Ed sent the petiton to Amazon we got a call from Jeff Bezo's office restoring our account! DON'T MAKE A $28K MISTAKE LIKE US. CALL ED ROSENBURG as SOON as you get a call from Account Health! Ed's team specializes in account reactivation, POA's, and even account pricing and inventory. We HIGHLY RECOMMEND ED and his team!! See less

December 5, 2019 ·
Thank you, Ed Rosenberg!!!!!! We can hardly believe it, but we just got the call from Amazon this morning and have been reinstated after being suspended since October 22. They spoke to me for about 10 minutes, I explained more of the details of the situation. Part of the confusion on their part was that the RO who had retracted the complaints had many different names (they had also been recently bought by a larger company) so it made the situation more confusing. But we really can't thank Ed and his team enough. They made all the difference. We had originally hired a different consultant within days of the suspension, and after a month of getting nowhere, we joined this group and saw that people with experiences similar to ours had gotten reinstated after involving Ed. Posts talking about the compassion he showed them after what they had been through, and how he somehow managed to hone in on the issue, target the communication and sort through the layers, and help them get reinstated so quickly. So we asked him to take on our case, and now we're reinstated!
It's hard to describe how grateful we are and will ever be to Ed and his team for their work, their support, their perseverance, their attitude—and the excellence and standard they bring to their work and ethic. I don't want to malign them too much, but the former consultants we hired were the opposite experience. Where we had to chase them up for any response or answer—and usually wait 12 hours for the briefest response, Ed and Sarah and Dena and the rest of his team have been initiating and directing and checking in with us constantly from the get go—even on Thanksgiving! Coming up with a new POA for us even then, without any prompting! Thinking about us, always considering what next to do when one thing didn't seem to work quickly. They've been available to us at nearly all hours, and they'd get back to us immediately or within minutes almost every time. Extraordinary. And the caliber of their writing, their strategy, their assessment and grasp of the situation, from every detail to the the large picture—it just put as at such ease. We truly TRUSTED every step they had us take. Because it was so evidently considered and clearly purposeful in every way.
And their sincere understanding, empathy and sympathy for what we've been going through was also so evident and so terribly appreciated. It's an experience that is hard to describe to other folks who have not gone through it, but having found this group and seeing other sellers having gone through the same experience—employee layoffs, livelihood seeming to disappear in an instant with no grasp of how to get it back—we recognize the same sense of traumatic insecurity and helplessness we have been feeling throughout this time. And Ed and his team totally got it and were so kind to us throughout. This has been the most challenging time our family has gone through in many, many years, and they became our beacon in the very short time we worked with them.
Ed and his staff are a remarkable team, through and through, and our family and the employees we just brought back from lay-off can't thank them all enough. See less

It can be a lonely existence selling on Amazon, in particular when something goes wrong and you need some help. This group is a lifeline to so much sensible advice and support from those who are walking the same journey.
Ed Rosenberg has exactly the right approach, a balance which supports those in genuine need yet understands the complex mechanics which is Amazon and makes sense of it in such a way that maintains an ongoing relationship with both parties, to the benefit of the seller and Amazon.
This group is hugely valuable and thanks must go to those maintaining it on a daily basis and everyone who sensibly contributes, making it into the community that it is.

Ed and his team are top notch. First, the Facebook page is super helpful to find answers to common problems that sellers face. It's refreshing to network with other sellers in similar situations. I have learned so much from the alerts that Ed puts out, and the posts on this site. Secondly, the content posted here allows us to be better sellers and comply with ever-changing Amazon policies. It's a road map you will need as you navigate what it means to be an Amazon seller. Lastly, when I had an issue with my account being suspended, Ed personally reached out to me and helped me with the issue. The end result was that Amazon reinstated my account! Thank you just doesn't say enough for Ed and his team, but THANK YOU! See less

Everything everyone says in their reviews is spot on. They are true professionals. They understood the urgency of the situation completely and were quick to respond to every email even during non-typical hours. They also knew exactly what they were doing when it came to putting together the best possible plan of action. Not surprisingly, it worked like a charm and very quickly. Can't thank you guys enough

在一本关于账户申诉的书上看到Ed 特地注册了Facebook 关注这个团体 看到很多美国本地买家的评论 感觉非常好
I saw in a book about account complaints that Ed specially registered on Facebook to follow this group, and I saw many comments from local buyers in the US, and it felt very good.

It's great to network with other sellers and the speeches are interesting and very informative. What I love most is being up to date with new vendors every year and the products/ services they offer that are very helpful to an amazon business. Thank you Ed for putting it all together!

I must say that Ed from ASGTG is the best online source you can find for your Amazon business. I had my account hacked about 3 months back, and needless to say, I lost all my inventory and several 1000s of dollars.
I reached out to Amazon and created cases with all the details, and called them almost every day for the past 3 months- but got nowhere. I tried every trick- escalated my case, talked to captive teams, spent hours on the phone, shared all my logs and details, filed online police complaints, met with the local police, reached out to other lawyers only to be told that costs are high and chances of getting my good or money is low...the list is endless. However, I luckily stumbled upon this Facebook group, and posted my story here, and got in touch with Ed. We talked, exchanged a few messages, and he was very assuring. 2 weeks later, I was reimbursed for all the losses!!! I highly recommend this group- by far the best experience I have had. No fees, nothing in return, no subscriptions- just good help and advice. I really am very appreciative of Ed and this group. THANK YOU for all your support and help. See less

Ed Rosenberg and his group is simply amazing. My account was suspended about 6 months ago and I have been beating my head trying to get reinstated. No matter what I did I kept getting the same replies as either my POA wasn't complete or I was denied. I even had someone write a POA for me which ended up not helping.
After talking to a friend who also sells online he recommended I try finding an expert to help me. He referred me to another "expert" who seemed to know what they were doing and she asked me to wait a few days while they see if they can help my account. So I waited and stumbled upon Ed's group and asked if he could help me... we communicated with the details of my case and he formulated a plan to have our account reinstated.. within 24 hours I received a VERY detailed POA which I submitted. Within 2 hours my account was reinstated.. it was absolutely incredible how fast it was restored.. THANK YOU VERY MUCH ED Rosenberg! See less

Ed has created a community where sellers for the first time can turn to for a group involvement, discussion, and help. Ed has dedicated much of his personal time gratuitously and advocates for sellers all the time, and as an attorney focusing on Amazon related issues, I can't emphasize the value that Ed has brought to online sellers. A big thank you to Ed for being transparent, genuine, and bringing this group together for a common goal. See less
